EnviroManager+

Instant fleet-wide compliance at your fingertips.

EM+

EnviroManager+ equips shoreside teams with capability to deploy company policies and standards to vessels through position-based guidance.

This customisable solution allows companies to set standards that can be applied throughout the entire fleet, by vessel type or by location.

Using EnviroManager+, companies can also custom configure how EnviroManager is viewed and used by crew aboard the vessel, with company policies appearing first, followed by external regulations. By standardising one view that is used throughout the fleet, crew can be trained more easily as EnviroManager will be used the same way aboard each vessel.

The challenges

Company-wide policies can be broad; understanding what actions can be undertaken based on these policies, in relation to maritime legislation and the location of a vessel, is a big task for onboard crew.

Ensuring that company policies are clearly communicated and followed is a challenge for all levels of company management. Fragmented information on policies and regulations causes confusion and is time-consuming to manage, increasing risk of error and inconsistency in how policies are followed.

Lack of clear guidance

Crew may not know when company policies should come into effect and how to go about applying them. This creates inconsistency in how procedures are applied throughout a fleet.

Need for position-based information

Many policies only come into effect in certain geographical regions. Without position-based information, it is up to the user to remember when policies and regulations are in effect, making it difficult to plan compliance activities in advance.
